Federal Student Loans

Subsidized: Federal loan that is offered to a student. The federal government pays interest for the student while they are in college or while the loan is in deferment.

Unsubsidized: Federal loan offered to a student. Interest starts to accrue on the loan as soon as the loan is disbursed. Interest can be paid while the student is in school or will capitalize at the time repayment begins.

All federal student loans go into repayment six months after graduation or if student enrolls below half-time status (six hours).

Origination fees taken off of loan: 1.066%, example $5,500 loan, $5,442 actual loan proceeds that will disburse
Interest rate: currently 4.529%, fixed
Student Loan Maximums

- Yearly loan maximums are set by Department of Education, and we are unable to increase them.

- $5,500 for freshman is the maximum, $6,500 for sophomores, and $7,500 for junior/senior

- Undergraduate aggregate federal loan limit is $31,000

- If a student is wanting to borrow more, they will have to do so through private student loans (loan in student’s name, most require co-signers)
Parent PLUS Loan

• Only one parent has to be listed on the loan
• Apply at www.studentloans.gov
• Application goes through credit check
• If PLUS is denied, student may borrow an additional $4,000/year in an unsubsidized (interest bearing) loan or borrower may appeal/apply with cosigner
• PLUS interest rate 7.079% fixed, interest begins accruing immediately
• Repayment: Immediately or six months after student’s graduation
• Origination Fee of 4.264% , $20,000 loan will have $19,145 actually disburse
